

Extension Arm

The Extension arm is designed to be used when extra reach is needed

The Nederman extension arm for extraction arms is designed to be used when extra reach is needed. The extension is manufactured from robust steel profiles. The extension can be connected direct to a single fan or to a ducted system.

The extension arm is suspended by a pivoting wall bracket close to the wall and a joint on the middle of the product, which makes it flexible in all directions. The product is equipped with a universal bracket at the end which fits all Nederman extraction arms, exhaust reels or single exhaust extractors. The arm is equipped with a diameter 200mm (7,78") hose, for high airflows. Duct kits are ordered separately from the list of accessories.

It is possible to support other products to the extension arm such as welding machines, hose and cable reels ,etc. All arm parts are treated with Nederman blue colour, except for the metal ducts which are galvanized.
